iconic wines featured on the winelist

Giaconda

Giaconda, the vineyard was established by Rick Kinzbrunner, a mechanical engineer who became interested in wine in the early 1970's and spent the next ten years travelling to wine-growing areas overseas learning as much as possible. After a brief stint in New Zealand he studied at Davis University in California and worked at some of the most respected wineries in the Napa and Sonoma Valleys, namely Stag's Leap, Simi and Matanzas Creek. In Europe he worked a 'stage' with the Moueix group, co-owner of the fabled Chateau Petrus.

After returning to Australia in 1980 to take up a position as assistant winemaker at Brown Brothers Milawa he purchased land near the old Everton Hills Vineyard, and in 1982 commenced planting the classic varieties Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, and a small amount of Pinot Noir which was followed in 1986 by another acre. In the last five years further plantings of Pinot Noir and Chardonnay have occurred, with a small amount of Roussanne.

Savaterre

Nestled in the mountains of northeastern Victoria, just outside the town of Beechworth, is Savaterre vineyard. The site was "discovered" in 1996 by Keppell Smith, owner and winemaker, and sits just across the road from the Giaconda winery. The mild summer days, cool climate elevation combined with the rolling foothills of the Victorian Alps was the magic "terroir" combination sought by Keppell.

Intensely focused on the creation of outstanding individualistic wines far removed from the mainstream, Keppell looks more to the wines, winemaking and viticulture of the Old World for inspiration.

Bass Phillip

Bass Phillip is renowned for producing some of the best pinot noir in Australia.

Established by Phillip Jones in 1979, the vineyards are located at Leongatha in the most southern part of Victoria, not far from Phillip Island and Wilson's Promontory. Named after early explorers of the region, George Bass and Arthur Phillip, Bass Phillip is located not far from the sea, but far enough inland to experience a continental climate ideal for grape growing

Glaetzer

Glaetzer is one of the emerging stars of the Barossa. Although this family venture was established only in 1995, philosophically and by heritage, Glaetzer is Barossa down to its boot-straps.

A Roseworthy trained father and son team, Colin and Ben Glaetzer, are the winemakers.

Glaetzer Shiraz (first vintage 1996) epitomises the strong sense of place emerging in the Barossa.

This is a wine that goes further than expressing Barossa floor Shiraz.

The fruit is sourced entirely from low yielding unirrigated old vines (mostly around 60 to 80 years old) around the village of Ebenezer. Here the soils are sandy clay loams and the climate is distinctly hotter and drier than Barossa south. Glaetzer believes the Shiraz fruit is softer and rounder in Ebenezer.

The Glaetzer Shiraz is open fermented and regularly pumped over to optimise flavour.

Towards dryness it is racked into new American puncheons to complete fermentation.

Maturation takes approximately 12 to 18 months (depending on vintage) prior to bottling.

Bannockburn

The Late Stuart Hooper established Bannockburn in 1973. The winery, located just northwest of Geelong, is one of Australia's leading Pinot Noir and Chardonnay producers. Gary Farr, the winemaker until 2004, was notoriously fastidious with a deep understanding of his material.

Research has shown that Bannockburn's Pinot Noir clone was brought out as part of the James Busby collection, originally planted in the Botanical Gardens in Sydney and sourced from Clos Vougeot.

Indeed the vines look remarkably similar to their Burgundian antecedents. With over 20 Australian vintages under his belt and the equivalent in Burgundy, Farr believed in vineyard individuality and vintage personality.

Farr's replacement, Michael Glover, carries on the tradition.

Penfolds

Penfolds is probably the most extraordinary of the world's wine brands with an enviable reputation for quality at every price level. The original Penfold was an English doctor who, in 1844, planted grapes at Magill, now a suburb of Adelaide. It is really only since the late 1940s that Penfolds has forged a reputation for red wine.

Penfolds traditional reds are mostly multi-regional blends. The result is a litany of consistently high-quality wine.

Overall, the style is about highly-defined fruit aromas, fruit sweetness, ripe tannins, richness, power and concentration. Penfolds Grange, Bin 707 Cabernet Sauvignon, St Henri, Magill Estate and Bin 389 Cabernet Sauvignon-Shiraz are all strongly sought after on the investment market.

Australia's seemingly insatiable thirst for sauvignon blanc from the Marlborough region has inspired many wine importers to source new-wave french alternatives.

They often have the same aromatics you find in Marlborough savvy, but with a little more finesse.

chardonnay

The grape variety that is so overwhelmingly popular that it has almost become a brand name !

Most people associate it with the big, upfront, fruity flavors of Australia.

It is the grape that produces such white burgundies as chablis and is an important component of champagne.

Why is chardonnay so popular. Is it because it is the grape variety that pleases everybody?

The winemaker, because it is relatively easy to grow and will accommodate varied winemaking styles.

The wine drinker, because it offers such a wide range of taste sensations from crisp, fresh and citrusy to powerfully full-bodied and oaky.

chardonnay france - petit chablis, chablis aoc, chablis 1er cru, chablis grand cru

Burgundy begins near the Yonne Valley, about ninety miles southeast of Paris, with the wine region of Chablis. Continuing south ninety more miles, we come to Burgundy 'proper', the legendary Côte d'Or.

Named after the golden color of the vine leaves in autumn, the Côte d'Or is a continuous river of vines that hug the southeast-facing escarpment of the Morvan plateau, some 30 miles from the bustling outskirts of Dijon in the north to the sleepy villages of Maranges in the south.

The key to chablis is the soil - lime stone clay mix - full of fine marine fossils - this gives the Chardonnay that distinctive flinty mineral character.

The area is higher than Burgundy which makes for that typical racy acidity that is a hall mark of Chablis.

Petit Chablis is generally unoaked as a rule of thumb, whereas premier cru and grande cru are generally oaked. One of the great food wines of the world.

sangiovese - australian, italian

Few names in the wine world are as well recognized as Chianti.

Most non-wine drinkers are familiar with it, if only from the uninspired juice in the traditional fiasco, the now largely retired straw-wrapped bottle of melted candle fame.

But this Tuscan red, whose backbone is the Sangiovese grape, (the name means "blood of Jove") has recently been through some major changes.

The Chianti Region - Chianti is the name of a district, and also the wine from that district.

Grapes for wine labeled Chianti may be grown on land north of Florence down to the border of Umbria, and from as far west as the area near Livorno and Pisa on the coast to east of Arezzo. Within the broader Chianti district, the Chianti Classico region is the hilly and picturesque, classically beautiful heart of Tuscany that stretches from south of Florence almost to Siena.

sangiovese - italian

Brunello di Montalcino - Made from 100% Sangiovese grapes from a specific clone called "Brunello" in the town of Montalcino. Situated in the southwestern part of Tuscany the town of Montalcino sits on a ridge about 400 feet above the Eastern plain. This ridge divides the region into three diverse growing areas.

The northeastern part produces wines with brighter fruit, more cherry and high tone notes and somewhat leaner body. The southeastern portion often referred to, as the "Golden Triangle" is the home of Biondi Santi, the family who invented Brunello and championed its production for half a century before anyone else. This region produces wines with rich body, deep ripe cherry to plum fruit with lots of earth and spice.

The third portion is the southwesterly facing slope which is the warmest (hence the ripest grapes), consistently producing wines with more breadth and richness.

At the turn of this century, there were more than 150 growers who produce the 233,000 cases annually from the 2863 acres inscribed to Brunello.

2001 castello banfi brunello di montalcino sangiovese tuscany 155.0

Vino Nobile di Montepulciano—the noble wine of Montepulciano. It has a great, resonant ring to it. But until recently, most of the resonance lay in the name, not in the wine. Today, the wines of Montepulciano are coming back to join those of Montalcino and Chianti Classico in a trio of fine modern Tuscan reds. What happened? How did a wine that has been made in this region for at least 1,200 years suddenly reinvent itself. The answer lies in the fact that most of today's successful wine estates were founded in only the last 10 to 20 years. Bankers and industrialists arrived from the cities with a dream to make fine wine, and the cash to do it. Top wine producers from other parts of Tuscany have come to Montepulciano and have brought their knowledge and experience, making wine in Montepulciano these days, is an exciting experience

2006 poliziano vino nobile di montepulciano montepulciano montepulciano tuscany 79.5

super tuscans

It may seem paradoxical that Tuscany, a region once stifled by viticultural traditions dating back three millennia to the Etruscans, is today acclaimed by wine aficionados around the world for the revolutionary reds known as 'Super Tuscans.'

That term came into use among English-speaking writers in the 1980's in reference to wines devoid of official appellations yet often surpassing the classic reds of Tuscany in prestige and price.

Tuscan winemakers, happily abandoning age-old practices, began to put their best efforts and best grapes into reds styled for modern palates. They replaced their massive old casks with gleaming new barriques of French oak, while planting Cabernet and other trendy varieties alongside the ancestral Sangiovese in vineyards that emerged with unabashed grandeur as crus.

The archetype Super Tuscan was Sassicaia, created by Marchese Mario Incisa della Rocchetta at his San Guido estate at Bolgheri near the Tyrrhenian coast.

In 1944, Incisa planted cabernet cuttings from Chateau Lafite in Bordeaux, where he also acquired used barrels for aging the wine. Incisa's nephew, Piero Antinori, talked his uncle into selling 3,000 bottles of the 1968 vintage through Marchesi Antinori distributors and Sassicaia became a legend, enhanced by winning a tasting of the world's cabernets in London in 1978.

The success of Sassicaia and other Super Tuscans based on cabernet (or merlot) set off a series of new plantings that for a while looked as if it might threaten the predominance of Sangiovese. At Bolgheri, the denomination was modified to include red wines based on the French varieties, while granting a special DOC to Sassicaia, the first ever for a wine from a single estate. Along the Tyrrhenian coast, new vineyards and new DOCs have underlined the promise of cabernet and merlot.

nebbiolo, barbaresco & barolo

Nowhere does nebbiolo show its class as much as in the two regions of Barolo and Barbaresco.

Barolo's western wines are marked by greater aroma and finesse and develop quicker, while those from the east have greater structure, body, power, and longevity.

Barbaresco too shows marked variation in terrain and grapes. However, overall Barolo is considered chunkier', fuller and more powerful, and thus slower-aging than the more refined Barbaresco.

shiraz barossa - glaetzer

It's hard to deny – winemaking is in the Glaetzer blood. Winemaker Colin Glaetzer and his wife, Judith, have three sons, all of whom have followed in their father's footsteps, with two of the boys having also married winemakers. Add to this Colin's twin brother, John, and there's a tally of seven Glaetzer winemakers in the family. It is, however, the partnership between Colin and his second son, Ben, and the complementary philosophical differences they bring to it, which ultimately makes their work so worthy of attention. Parker awarded the 2003 amon ra 100/100.

rhone valley - northern

All rhone red wines are listed together, then re listed with their new world partners.

The mighty European wine river, the Rhone, rises as a tiny stream in the Swiss Alps and reaches the Mediterranean 800 kilometres later. However, to the wine enthusiast, the Rhone Valley is only that part between Vienne in the north and Avignon in the south. For reasons of wine style, climate, soil and grape variety, it is usual to divide the valley into two sections.

The defining red grape of the northern Rhone is Shiraz, or Syrah, as it is known in France.

Syrah is responsible for the great red wines of the Hill of Hermitage and of Cote Rotie (the 'roasted slope', It also produces the more affordable but still delicious Saint-Joseph and Cornas appellations.

Twenty owners share the 130 hectares of vines on the Hill of Hermitage, and make some of France's longest-lasting red wines. The commercial centre of the northern Rhone is the proud town of Valence, home to another epicurean delight, Valrhona, arguably the world's best chocolate.

rhone valley - southern

About 95 % of the total Rhone Valley harvest is red wine, 95 % of the region's wine comes from the south. Major appellations are Chateauneuf-du-Pape, Gigondas, Cotes du Rhone-Villages and Cotes du Rhone.

Châteauneuf-du-Pape

This is the driest region of the Côtes du Rhône; the prevailing wind is the Mistral and there are approximately 2,800 hours of sunshine per year, the heat of the day is stored by the stones and released at night.

When the Papacy was established in Avignon in the 14th Century, Châteauneuf-du-Pape was selected to be the Pope's summer residence. The seven successive Popes encouraged the wine production and the expanding of the vineyards. The strict way in which wine has been produced has remained a constant throughout the history of these vineyards, and acted as the basis for the criteria of the A.O.C. r 375 ml Châteauneuf-du-Pape was consecrated a Local A.O.C. in 1936.

grenache predominant - southern rhone blends

In the southern section of the Rhone the primary varieties used are Grenache, Mourvedre, Cinsault and Syrah. About 95 per cent of the total Rhone Valley harvest is red wine, about 95% from the south. Major appellations are Chateauneuf-du-Pape, Gigondas, Cotes du Rhone-Villages and Cotes du Rhone. The village of Chateauneuf-du-Pape, equidistant from Orange and Avignon, sprawls down a gentle hillside dominated by the ruins of the chateau.

cabernet family right bank style wines australia, france

Bordeaux is the largest fine wine growing region in the world. Its reputation rests squarely on a group of famous chateaux. These wines are firm, long-lived and finely balanced.

cabernet family left bank style wines australia

As you can see from the list, the Left Bank is predominately Cabernet Sauvignon, and the Right Bank is predominately Merlot. But keep in mind that Bordeaux is about blending grapes. It is not like Australia where most of your wines are either Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, etc., expressing one varietal almost totally.

A bottle of Cabernet Sauvignon or a bottle of Merlot does not exist in Bordeaux.

And it is because Bordeaux is about the marriage of varietals to create a union that lasts, that the best Bordeaux lasts for decades.

In the old Gascon language, the word 'Cos' means 'The Hill of Pebbles'.

And as a matter of fact, the hill of Cos, which is situated on the banks of the Gironde, is an impressive accumulation of Quaternary gravel wrested from the distant mountains of the Massif Central and the Pyrenees and laid on Saint-Estèphe's limestone bed.

Shaped into well drained slopes by the erosion, these exceptionally deep layers of gravel are a true geological curiosity and also one of the world's most precious Terroir, for it forces the old vines planted on its heights to thrust their roots into the arid soil.

The vineyard of Cos spreads around the château on 173 acres. It is split into about 30 parcels of land.

Cabernet Sauvignon vines represent 60% of the vineyard, Merlot 40% .

zinfandel / petit verdot

Technically of the cabernet family, it's brothers are primitivo and negroamaro.

Zin, by any of it's names, is characterised by tastes of bramble and 'bright' fresh or fermented red berries, a savoury, muscular palate, with high alcohol and dense fruit.

grappa

Founded in 1897 by Orazio Nonino in Friuli, Nonino has changed the way the world views grappa. Today, current proprietor Benito Nonino and his wife Giannola, together with their three daughters, continue to lead Italian distillers through their devotion to research, quality and innovation.

nonino fragolino cru monovitigno	friuli it	14.5
nonino uvarossa	friuli it	10.5
nonino uvabianca	friuli it	10.5
nonino UE malvasia	friuli it	12.5

Nonino continued to set the standard for excellence when, in 1984, they produced the first single varietal, single vineyard distillates using whole grape clusters. Called UE, this special line of aqua vitae is produced using the finest fruit possible.

After undergoing a special fermentation process, the must and juice are distilled together to create a dynamic spirit which imparts a more intense flavor profile than traditional grappas.

nonino vendemmia	friuli it	9.5
nonino prunella - prune	friuli it	10.5

Questa È Vera Grappa is Italian for "this is real grappa".

The eccentricity of the name reflects the small scale and exclusivity of the operation run by father and daughter team, Silvano and Elena Schiavon.
